Park Community School – PE

What's next ?

There is a wide range of courses in the sports sector, from sports science, to performance and sports psychology. This area offers access to a huge choice of courses, from hands-on fitness, to administration and management.

Sport is an increasingly popular career sector, with demand for higher level expertise in performance analysis, business management, and community engagement, as well as hands-on participation.

You can choose to study through vocational and academic routes, either through an apprenticeship or on more traditional higher education courses. Universities and colleges in the UK offer diplomas, foundation degrees, higher education diplomas, honours degrees, and postgraduate and professional qualifications in sport. A range of local colleges and university courses are listed below plus some top level sporting universities.
